Joint Applicant Information

- I am applying for a joint account with rights of survivorship.
 I am applying for a joint account without rights of survivorship.

Notes on survivorship: On an account with rights of survivorship, if one of the owners becomes deceased the funds are transferred to the surviving owner without having to go through lengthy estate proceedings. For a joint account without rights of survivorship, the deceased owner's interest passes to his or her estate.

Important Information

To help the government fight the funding of terrorism and money laundering activities, Federal law requires all financial institutions to obtain, verify and record information that identifies each person who opens an account. When you apply for an account, we will ask for your personal information as a means to identify you. We will also ask to see your drivers' license and any other identifying documents we deem necessary to confirm your identity.

You authorize us to check your account, credit and employment history, and obtain reports from third parties, including credit reporting agencies to verify your eligibility for the accounts and services you request.
